

YouMeet Guidelines

YouMeet is committed to creating a safe and authentic environment where diversity, mutual respect, and sex-positivity thrive.

You, our user community, also have a big role to play in making YouMeet amazing. So we want to be very clear about what we expect from you, and how we will respond in the event those expectations aren't met. These are our community guidelines. Any violation of these guidelines may result in the removal of your content or your YouMeet account, and may even result in a permanent ban from our service.

So we're clear: these guidelines apply to all of your content and activity on YouMeet, as well as interactions you may have with other YouMeet users off our platform. The guidelines are also periodically reviewed and updated.

Beyond the below, we encourage you to read our safety tips and holistic security guide for more valuable information. And please report with the apposite button  any behavior or user that violates our policies or terms of service--doing so will help us keep YouMeet amazing.

Harassment

We want you to be yourself and express yourself freely here, but not at the expense of someone else. We strongly suggest you talk about what you are into, not what you aren't, on your profile. And the old adage "if you can't say something nice, don't say anything at all" pertains here just like at your grandmother's.

We also expect you to leave someone alone when they indicate they want to be left alone. This is a foundational rule. Misusing our reporting system to get back at someone who's blocked you, or creating new accounts to continued patterns of unwanted contact will result in a permanent ban.

Hate, violence, and offensive content

It should go without saying, but we don't allow hate speech or violence of any kind. If we learn that you have abused or seriously threatened another user, you will be banned forever. We may also remove content that we find too graphic, offensive, or insensitive and hurtful, even if there was no ill intent.

Finally, depictions of self harm or suicide can be harmful for others, so we will remove them. If you see someone in crisis, please let us know.

Nudity and Sexual Content

YouMeet is a sex-positive place, but we can't allow pornography or sexually explicit nudity in public profiles. Our user experience has to be acceptable to the chaste eyes of Apple and Google's app store decision-makers, lest we get kicked off their platforms. And then what? Windows phones? So if you couldn't put it on Instagram, you can't put it on your YouMeet profile.

You can totally send photos privately, but always make sure that you have consent from the recipient first.

Obey the law

If something is illegal offline, well guess what: it's also illegal on YouMeet! Yes, this includes drugs. Illegal content and depictions of illegal activity will be taken down and, when appropriate, reported to the appropriate authorities.

Minors

YouMeet is for adults ONLY. You must be at least 18 to use the app (or older in certain jurisdictions). We take this age limit very, very seriously, and any violation or suspected violation will result in a ban, at a minimum, and could lead us to involve the appropriate authorities.

We also do not allow any images of anyone under 18, in any context. This includes images where a minor's face is blurred out, is in the background, or whatever.

Our total ban on minor activity extends to communication: if a user communicates with another user that they believe to be under 18, that is also a violation of our age policy. By immediately reporting underage profiles, you are keeping other users and yourself safe.

Be authentic

Be yourself on the app, not someone else. Any profiles impersonating other people, including celebrities, will be banned. Content that you post on YouMeet should be of you or by you, and you should represent yourself truthfully.

Private information

YouMeet will never ask you for personal details like your password or your credit card information. Other users don't need to know this stuff either. Please protect yourself by keeping this information to yourself.

In the interest of safety, we will remove any sensitive personal information displayed publicly, such as phone numbers and addresses, and we may suspend or ban the profile.

Unwelcome solicitation of another user's personal information, prompting users to visit outside links, or any kind of spamming or scamming will get you banned.

Promotion and Solicitation

We appreciate a good side-hustle, and it's cool to invite people to an event you're going to, but don't spam our users with links or use YouMeet to advertise your business. Nobody's here for that.

Sexual or financial solicitation is unlawful and is completely prohibited.

Have fun

Hopefully you agree that the above rules are mostly common sense. We're here to keep YouMeet safe, authentic, and welcoming for everyone. Most people do their part by just being themselves: friendly, chill, casual, whatever. We recommend you start there, and you'll almost certainly be fine.

How to report

If you see someone breaking the rules, please report them using the  button found in the upper right corner of the user profile, and we'll take it from there. The more information that you add in the comments or attach to your report, the better we'll be able to look into it.

Please always remember to be tolerant, and try to give other people the benefit of the doubt (both here on YouMeet and everywhere!) Someone on the app might upset or offend you without necessarily violating our guidelines. In those instances, it's best to just use our block feature--you and the other user will never see or contact each other again. Reporting non-issues will keep us from fighting the real problems.

Finally, if you would like to report an incident that happened off YouMeet, let us know at youmeet.info@gmail.com. We also recommend you report to law enforcement if you feel comfortable doing so.
